Assessing Alabama's Archives: A Plan of the State's Historical Records (1985)

Historical Context

When Alabama achieved statehood in 1819, the records of the Alabama Territory were split between officials of Alabama, Mississippi, and the federal government. The legislature passed a law in 1820 that required the Secretary of State's office to be responsible for the care of legislative records. The Secretary of State was also responsible for consolidating and copying British, French, and Spanish records in Alabama relating to Alabama's colonial period. The Alabama Historical Society was created in 1850 to try and preserve the history of the state. The society was not very successful and its members began to lose interest. The society was reorganized in the mid-1870's, but had only a meager collection. The State Superintendent of Army Records collected the records of Alabama's soldiers during 1863-1865. Until the turn of the century, there were few other efforts to preserve and/or promote Alabama's history. In 1898, the legislature created a historical commission to study the condition of Alabama's historical records. Based upon the recommendations of this commission, the legislature, with the support of the governor, created the Alabama Department of Archives and History (ADAH) in 1901 with the mandate to collect all historical sources and to encourage research.

In this original agency were the beginnings of the public library movement in Alabama, efforts to improve history education, a reference service for the Legislature, research on and the making of significant Alabama historical sites along with other historical activities. During the years after the dedication of the Archives building in 1940, some programs (public library and historical sites preservation) were separately administratively from the department, while other responsibilities (records management) were added.

Agency Organization

The agency is under the direction of a Board of Trustees, consisting of two (2) members from each congressional district, two at-large members, and the Governor for a total of seventeen (17). Board members serve six-year terms of office and meet quarterly. When a trustee's term terminates for whatever reason, the remaining trustees elect another from the same district. The board must then submit the newly elected trustee to the Alabama Senate for confirmation. The director of the Alabama Department of Archives and History serves as secretary to the board. The board appoints a director who oversees the operation of the agency. The director is assisted by several assistant directors, who serve as heads of divisions within the agency. Currently, the agency has three divisions: Administrative Services, Government Services, and Public Services. The department's legislation provides for archivists, librarians, stenographers, and other personnel as needed to operate the agency.

Agency Function and Subfunctions

The mandated functions of the Alabama Department of Archives and History are to ensure the preservation of Alabama's historical records and artifacts and to promote a better understanding of Alabama's history. It is one of the agencies responsible for performing the Education and Stewardship functions of Alabama government. In performance of its mandated functions, the Alabama Department of Archives and History may engage in the following subfunctions.

- Governing. The agency is under the direction of a Board of Trustees which may “adopt rules for its own government and also for the government of the department” (Code of Alabama, Section 41-6-4). To carry out the mandates of the department, the board appoints a director who controls and directs the work and operations of the department.

- Appraising, Identifying, and Acquiring Records and Artifacts of Historical Value. Staff members of the agency work with government entities and private sectors to appraise and identify records, regardless of format, and artifacts that document the history of the state for possible acquisition and preservation. Members of the Government Services Division work with the State Records Commission and the Local Government Record Commission to create individual Records Disposition Authorities (RDA) for state agencies, colleges, universities, and local government entities across the state. RDAs designate the retention periods for all records and also identify archival records that may be eligible for acquisition by the ADAH. In accordance with the agency's collecting strategy, staff of the Public Services Division identify and collect private materials—both private records and artifacts—of individuals and organizations for preservation. These records and artifacts are obtained by transferring both the ownership and the item itself from an agency, individual, or group to the department. Staff members also contact and work with prospective donor regarding potential gifts of records/artifacts to the department. In addition, staff may monitor auction sites and sales markets to identify items stolen from the department's collection or suitable for acquisition. The department may bid on or purchase these items using funds from the Friends of the Archives. Reference materials including books and serials are also acquired for possible use by the public.

- Cataloging, Managing, and Preserving Records and Artifacts in the Agency’s Custody. After acquisitions of records and artifacts are in the holdings of the department, staff members inventory and create preliminary descriptions as finding aids for them. Security and preservation measures for the collections are also implemented to ensure the safety of collections. Other activities may include annual reviews of collections, development of disaster response plans, and monitoring of environmental control. To meet the challenge brought by new technologies, staff develops and implements plans for a standard process that inventories servers, regulates backups, and ensures proper preservation storage of archival collections.
- Providing Access to Records and Artifacts in the Agency’s Custody. The department operates a research room to provide research and reference assistance to the general public who visits the department in person. Similar service is also provided in response to mails, e-mails, and telephone requests. As an additional service, staff regularly fills requests for inter-library loan. Staff may also work with online content providers to make additional collections accessible through commercial providers. Occasional public workshops on research and use of collections are held by the department for the public.
- Promoting Alabama History. The department is responsible for planning and implementing various interpretive exhibits and public programs for students and other groups to promote better awareness and understanding of Alabama history. To enhance the department’s efforts in promoting Alabama history education, in 2014 staff opened the Museum of Alabama, a multi-year project that tells the state’s history from prehistoric times to the 21st century through artifacts, images, and the voices of Alabamians. In addition, staff organizes and provides public programs of interest through museum visitation services; docent-led tours; interpretative programs, such as the monthly ArchiTreats lecture series; and related workshops or training opportunities. As one of the first state agencies to establish a website, the department continues to maintain, update, and build its website. Staff also assists and supports activities of other organizations promoting Alabama history.
- Assisting Governmental and Private Entities in Managing Records. Staff members provide service and advice to governmental and private entities in the management of all formats of records. As support staff for the State Records Commission and Local Government Records Commission, members of the Government Services Division coordinate all activities relating to the development/revision of Records Disposition Authorities (RDAs) for state/local government agencies, the RDA implementation training and monitoring process, and other records management assistance. The department may also apply for, administer, or participate in various grant programs and cooperative archival projects to assist localities in the preservation of their archival records or artifacts. As an additional service to state agencies located in Montgomery and nearby areas, the department operates the State Records Center (SRC) to provide offsite storage of non-archival paper records created by state agencies. State agencies' temporary records may be transferred to and stored at the SRC until they are eligible for destruction.

- Strengthening the Agency's Services through Auxiliary Organizations and Programs. The Friends of the Alabama Archives is a private, non-profit organization that raises funds to help the Archives' service through various programs and activities. The department's volunteer program recruits volunteers to carry out a variety of duties, such as receptionists, gallery assistants, museum tour guides, reference room workers, research aids, archival records processors, and gift shop workers. In order to secure more governmental and private funding for the department's new West Wing and the Museum of Alabama, the Archives and History Foundation was created in 2002 to oversee a capital fund-raising campaign. Staff members of the Archives coordinate with and provide logistical support to these organizations.

- Serving as Staff for Other Agencies. The director of the Department of Archives and History is mandated by the Code of Alabama to serve on numerous boards and commissions of the state. These bodies include the Alabama Academy of Honor, the Alabama Historical Commission, the State Capitol Advisory Committee, the Governor's Mansion Advisory Board, the Alabama Men's Hall of Fame, the Stonewall Jackson Memorial Fund, and the Alabama Agriculture Museum Board. The director also chairs both the State Record Commission and the Local Government Records Commission. Other staff members of the department may also serve and/or become involved in activities of professional organizations such as National Association of Government Archives and Records Administrators (NAGARA), the Association for Information and Image Management (AIIM), the Society of American Archivists (SAA), the Society of Alabama Archivists (SALA), the Alabama Museums Association (AMA), the American Association for State and Local History (AASLH), and other related organizations.

- Administering Internal Operations. A significant portion of the agency's work includes general administrative, financial, and personal activities performed to support its programmatic areas.

Managing the Agency: Activities include internal office management activities common to most government agencies, such as corresponding and communicating; scheduling; meeting; documenting policy and procedures; reporting; litigating; drafting, promoting, or tracking legislation; publicizing and providing information; managing records; and managing information systems and technology.

Managing Finances: Activities involved in managing finances may include the following: budgeting (preparing and reviewing a budget package, submitting the budget package to the Department of Finance; documenting amendment and performance of the budget); purchasing (requisitioning and purchasing supplies and equipment, receipting and invoicing for goods, and authorizing payment for products received); accounting for the expenditure, encumbrance, disbursement, and reconciliation of funds within the agency's budget through a uniform system of accounting and reporting; authorizing travel; contracting with companies of individuals; bidding for products and services; and assisting in the audit process.

Managing Human Resources: Activities involved in managing human resources may include the following: recruiting and hiring eligible individuals to fill vacant positions within the agency; providing compensation and benefits to employees; supervising employees (evaluating performance, disciplining, granting leave, and monitoring the accumulation of leave); and providing continuing education for employees.

Managing Properties, Facilities, and Resources: Activities involved in managing properties, facilities, and resources may include the following: inventorying and accounting for non-consumable property and reporting property information on the appropriate authority; constructing buildings and facilities; leasing and/or renting offices or facilities; providing for security and/or insurance for property; and assigning, inspecting, and maintaining agency property, including vehicles.

Analysis of Record-Keeping System and Record Appraisal of the Department of Archives and History

Agency Record Keeping System

The department currently operates a hybrid record-keeping system composed of paper and electronic records.

Paper-Based System: The department continues to utilize paper as a component of its record-keeping system.

Microfilm-Based System: Until 2008, the department maintained a micrographics lab which filmed newspapers and other selected records. Films were processed by an outside vendor. Reference copies of the microfilm are maintained in the reference room and the closed stacks; service copies are maintained in the stacks of the Archives building and at the State Records Center; and masters are stored in the Microfilm Storage Preservation Vault, located at the State Records Center.

Computer-Based System: The department uses computers that run in Windows XP or 7 with six servers running Microsoft Windows Server 2008 R2, one Redhat Linux, and one Ubuntu Linux. Backup of four servers is performed weekly by the Department of Finance's Information Services Division (ISD). The other two servers store duplicate material, LOCKSS and the ADAH intranet. The LOCKSS server does not require backup, and the intranet server is not backed up unless something changes. Archival records stored on the servers include recent accession logs. The department has a one and half terabyte Mac server for digital image files and a Mac server that contains the files of the defunct Publications Office, which is backed up on a Lacie drive. A Linux server is used to back up digital collections. The department has one LOCKSS box, which runs Ubuntu, for preservation of digital files. The LOCKSS box is one of a network of seven (7) LOCKSS boxes connected to the ADPNet. The holdings inventory databases are created in Paradox and maintained only in electronic format. The department uses ContentDM to provide access to some of its digital collections. Volunteer information is in Volgistics, an outline management system. Tour information is in Appointment-plus, an online scheduling system. The department uses Constant Contact to send press releases and announcements to the public. The department has an online public catalog, ADAHCAT, which patrons use to locate material. The catalog information is entered in using MARC description.

Electronic databases used and maintained by the department may include Accession, Collection Catalog, Government Records Collection Inventory, Microfilm, Newspaper Hardcopy, Civil War Solider, Gold Star, Voter Registration, Private Records Collection Inventory, Church Records, Education Publications, Sheet Music, Serials, Maps, Photos, Posters, Call Slips (for Private Records and Newspapers), Films, and Museum Artifact Collection Catalog.

Records Appraisal

The following is a discussion of the three major categories of records created and/or maintained by the Department of Archives and History: Temporary Records, Permanent Records, and Records No Longer Created.

I. Temporary Records. Temporary records should be held for what is considered their active life and disposed of once all their fiscal, legal, and administrative requirements have been met. Some of the temporary records created by the department are discussed below:

- Researcher Registration and Records Retrieval Files. A researcher registration file is created for each patron on their first visit to the department's reference room. The file consists of a registration form and a copy of all call slips completed by the researcher. A typical researcher may continue to use his/her registration data to request records without any renewal requirements. When requesting records, three carbon copies of each call slip are created and only one copy should be retained for reference and security purposes in documenting researcher use in the case ADAH needs to track use of a specific item or items.
- Teacher Workshop Registration and Sign-In Sheets. Teachers may attend workshops and other educational events held by the Archives to earn credits for certification and recertification. In some instances, these records serve as the only paper trail documenting a teacher has attended the course. Certification and recertification credit is valid for five (5) years; 7-year retention for this series is suggested.
- Time Capsule Sheets. This series consist of Time Capsule Sheets completed by elementary school students during the annual Girl Scouts Days held at the Archives. Information on the sheet includes the name of the student, school, grade, Girl Scout number and leader name of the student's pet, favorite color/television/teacher/books/music/food/subject, best friend's name, hobbies, and future goals. In order for the student to review his/her sheets in the future, this series should be maintained for 75 years to cover the average life span of the student.

II. Permanent Records. The Government Records Division recommends the following records as permanent.

Governing

- Meeting Agendas, Minutes, and Packets of the Board of Trustees. These records document proposed and executed proceedings of the board (Bibliographic Title: Meeting Agendas, Minutes, and Packets of the Board of Trustees)

They are necessary to prove that the item is no longer owned by the department and that the deaccessioning law has been followed by staff. (Bibliographic Title: Deaccessioned/Released Item Files)
- Declined Item Files. When an item is offered to the department but is not accepted, a file is created to the document the decline of the offer. These files are used to verify that the item was not accepted by the Archives. (Bibliographic Title: Deaccessioned/Declined Item Files)
- Ready Reference Materials Donor Files. These files document the acquisition of the reference materials that are in the possession of the Archives. They are necessary to document donation of the materials. (Bibliographic Title: Ready Reference Materials Donor Files)

This is the only place where all the information for an agency is pulled together. (Bibliographic Title: Government Records Collection Management Control Files)
- Museum Artifact Collection Management Control Files (Museum Catalog Worksheet). This series mainly consists of Museum Catalog Worksheets completed by the staff to document basic information on artifacts in the department's custody. Information on the worksheet may include object name, accession number, object description, provenance, conservation recommendations, object status, and disposition. The databases serve as finding aids for these records and should be preserved permanently. (Bibliographic Title: Private Records Collection Inventory Database)
- Private Records Collection Management Control Files. The Private Records Section also maintains control files on its collections, similar to the Government Records

Collection Management Controls Files of the Government Records Division. This series may contain processing plans, separation sheets, and other related materials.

(Bibliographic Title: Private Records Collection Management Control Files)

Providing Access to Records and Artifacts in the Agency's Custody

- Records documenting permission to use ADAH collections for publications/private use (Permission to Publish Contract and Collection Usage Contract) and published materials. Users must obtain approval to reproduce images or quote, cite, or publish materials from the collections of the Alabama Department of Archives and History. Users are also required to send to the department any books and articles they write using ADAH materials. Researcher's who use the department's collections for private use sign a contract stating they will not use materials for public use. These agreements should be maintained permanently to document permission provided to use the collections for a work, to ensure that the publisher sends the department a copy of the publication (either a book or an article), and to document a significant function of the Archives.
(Bibliographic Title: Records documenting permission to use ADAH collections for publications/private use [Permission to Publish Contract and Collection Usage Contract] and published materials)

Alabama Department of Archives and History Records Disposition Authority

This Records Disposition Authority (RDA) is issued by the State Records Commission under the authority granted by the Code of Alabama 1975, Sections 41-13-5 and 41-13-20 through 21. It was compiled by the Government Services Division, Alabama Department of Archives and History (ADAH), which serves as the commission's staff, in cooperation with representatives of the Alabama Department of Archives and History. The RDA lists records created and maintained by the Department of Archives and History in carrying out its mandated functions and activities. It establishes retention periods and disposition instructions for those records and provides the legal authority for the agency to implement records destruction.

Alabama law requires public officials to create and maintain records that document the business of their offices. These records must be protected from "mutilation, loss, or destruction," so that they may be transferred to an official's successor in office and made available to members of the public. Records must also be kept in accordance with auditing standards approved by the Examiners of Public Accounts (Code of Alabama 1975, Sections 36-12-2, 36-12-4, and 41-5-23). For assistance in implementing this RDA, or for advice on records disposition or other records management concerns, contact the ADAH Government Services Division at (334) 242-4452.

Explanation of Records Requirements

This RDA supersedes any previous records disposition schedules and/or RDAs governing the retention of the Alabama Department of Archives and History. Copies of superseded schedules or/and RDAs are no longer valid and should be discarded. The RDA establishes retention and disposition instructions for records listed below, regardless of the medium on which those records may be kept.

Electronic mail, for example, is a communications tool that may record permanent or temporary information. As for records in any other format, the retention periods for e-mail records are governed by the requirements of the subfunctions to which the records belong. Some temporary records listed under the Administering Internal Operations subfunction of this RDA represent duplicate copies of records listed for long-term or permanent retention in the RDAs of other agencies.

Certain other record-like materials are not actually regarded as official records and may be disposed of under this RDA. Such materials include: (1) duplicate record copies that do not require official action, so long as the creating office maintain the original record for the period required; (2) catalogs, trade journals, and other publications received that require no action and do not document government activities; (3) stocks of blank stationary, blank forms, or other surplus materials that are not subject to audit and have become obsolete; (4) transitory records, which are temporary records created for short-term internal purposes that may include, but are not limited to, telephone call-back messages; drafts of ordinary documents not needed for their evidential value; copies of material sent for information purposes but not needed by the receiving office for future business; and internal communications about social activities; and (5) honorary materials, plaques, awards, presentations, certificates, and gifts received or maintained by the agency staff. They may be disposed of without documentation of destruction.

Records Disposition Requirements

This section of the RDA is arranged by subfunctions of the Alabama Department of Archives and History and lists the groups of records created and/or maintained by the agency as a result of activities and transactions performed in carrying out these subfunctions. The department may submit requests to revise specific records disposition requirements to the States Records Commission for consideration at its regular quarterly meetings.

Requirements and Recommendations for Implementing the Records Disposition Authority

Requirements

Under the Code of Alabama 1975, Section 41-13-21, “ no state officer or agency head shall cause any state record to be destroyed or otherwise disposed of without obtaining approval of the State Records Commission.” This Records Disposition Authority constitutes authorization by the State Records Commission for the disposition of the records of the Alabama Department of Archives and History (hereafter referred to as the agency) as stipulated in the document.

One condition of this authorization is that the agency submits an annual Records Disposition Authority (RDA) Implementation Report on agency records management activities, including documentation of records destruction, to the State Record Commission in July of each year.

Recommendations

In addition, the agency should make every effort to establish and maintain a quality record-keeping program through the following activities:

The agency should designate a records liaison, who is responsible for: ensuring the development of quality record keeping systems that meet the business and legal needs of the agency, coordinating the transfer and destruction of records, ensuring the permanent records held on alternative storage media (such as microfilms and digital imaging systems) are maintained in compliance with national and state standards, and ensuring the regular implementation of the agency’s approved RDA.

Permanent records in the agency’s custody should be maintained under proper intellectual control and in an environment that will ensure their physical order and preservation.

Destruction of temporary records, as authorized in this RDA, should occur agency-wide on a regular basis – for example, after the successful completion of an audit, at the end of an administration, or at the end of a fiscal year. Despite the RDA’s provisions, no record should be destroyed that is necessary to comply with requirements of the state Sunset Act, audit requirements, or any legal notice or subpoena.

The agency should maintain full documentation of any computerized record-keeping system it employs. It should develop procedures for: (1) backing up all permanent records held in electronic format; (2) storing a back-up copy off-site; (3) migrating all permanent records when the system is upgraded or replaced. If the agency chooses to maintain permanent records solely in electronic format, it is committed to funding any system upgrades and migration strategies necessary to ensure the records’ permanent preservation and accessibility.

Electronic mail contain permanent, temporary, or transitory record information, Although e-mail records can be printed out, filed, and retained according to the RDA’s requirements, the division should preferably employ an electronic records management system capable of sorting e-mail into folders and archiving messages having long-term value.

The staff of the State Records Commission or the Examiners of Public Accounts may examine the condition of the permanent records in the custody of the agency and inspect records destruction documentation. Government Records Division archivists are available to instruct the agency staff in RDA implementation and otherwise assist the agency in implementing its records management program.

The State Records Commission adopted this records disposition authority on October 29, 2014.
