ALABAMA DEPARTMENT OF ARCHIVES AND HISTORY PRESENTS AFRICAN AMERICAN GENEALOGY: THE BASICS AND BEYOND

From 9 am – 12 pm on Monday, February 23, 2015, the Alabama Department of Archives and History (ADAH) will offer African American Genealogy: The Basics and Beyond. ADAH expert genealogist, Nancy Dupree, will lead this half-day workshop specifically tailored to those interested in researching African American ancestors. This workshop will focus on the basics for beginners and also provide more experienced participants valuable tools for taking their research to the next level.

This workshop will offer step-by-step instruction and guidance on the many resources available in the ADAH's EBSCO Research Room. Dupree will devote time to providing tips and tricks for navigating potential research roadblocks and addressing challenges specific to African American genealogical research. This workshop is suited for all levels of research experience.

Cost is $30 for the public and $20 for Friends of the Alabama Archives. For more information or to register for this course, please contact Sarah McQueen at 334-242-4364 or sarah.mcqueen@archives.alabama.gov or visit www.archives.alabama.gov.

Located in downtown Montgomery across the street from the State Capitol, the ADAH serves as the state's official government records repository, as a special collections library and research facility, and as the home of the Museum of Alabama. The ADAH and the Museum of Alabama are open Monday – Saturday, 8:30-4:30. Admission is always FREE. Visit www.archives.alabama.gov and www.museum.alabama.gov to learn more. Find the ADAH on Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram @AlabamaArchives.
